VZ-9, was a Canadian VTOL aircraft developed by Avro Aircraft Ltd. which utilizes this phenomenon by blowing air into a central area, then it is directed down over the top surface, which is parabolic and resembles a bowed flying saucer. Due to the Coandă effect, the airflow is attracted to the nearest surface and continues to move along that surface despite the change in the surface's direction away from the airflow.

Flyovers are an American tradition, fitting for the country that produced the Wright Brothers. However, flyovers have worldwide roots and worldwide flavor. The British also performed flyovers on the Western Front during World War I, and “the fly past” remains a tradition in the British, Canadian, and Australian armed services.
