Each year, approximately 1.5 million people in the United States and Canada are diagnosed with cancer. This is one family's story. Winner of the 2005 Eisner Award in the category of Best Digital Comic for the original Web version, Mom's Cancer is now available as a graphic novel. An honest, unflinching, and sometimes humorous look at the practical and emotional effect that serious illness can have on patients and their families, Mom's Cancer is a story of hope—uniquely told in words and illustrations. Brian Fies is a freelance journalist whose mother was diagnosed with lung cancer. As he and his two sisters struggled with the effects of her illness and her ongoing recovery from treatment, Brian processed the experience in his journal, which took the form of words and pictures. The story that came to be known as “Mom's Cancer” first gained notice on the internet. It was posted anonymously, with the intention of sharing information and insights gained from his family's experience. Thanks to the words and illustrations of Brian Fies, readers have already responded that they were surprised and gratified to realize that they weren't alone. Abrams ComicArts is proud to bring this story to a whole new audience.

Sammy's mommy receives treatment for cancer, goes into the hospital for surgery, recovers at home, and shares her continuing love for him.

At thirty-four, Susan Parris had just gotten her children settled into kindergarten and preschool when she received a breast cancer diagnosis that turned her life upside down. Cancer Mom chronicles her courageous battle with cancer, a clinical trial, and the power of God's presence in our lives. Cancer Mom is a source of strength, inspiration, and hope for anyone who has been diagnosed with cancer or witnessed a loved one's struggle. This is a book that demonstrates the value of fighting for your health. There is no place like hope, and Cancer Mom offers a healthy dose.

Two sisters, ages eleven and thirteen, describe what it was like for them when their mother was diagnosed with breast cancer and underwent surgery and chemotherapy.

"As Mom goes through treatment for cancer, her family supports her with what cancer hates most: love"--

Told from a child's point of view, describes the symptoms and treatment of cancer and discusses the effects on the family of a parent with the disease.

In simple language tells of a child's mother's diagnoses of breast cancer, and the treatment undertaken, including a double mastectomy and chemotherapy.

A unique perspective from a youth's point-of-view on how to deal with a parent's cancer diagnosis. The author provides a candid, but inspiring message for kids who may be faced with a similar circumstance. It's an extremely refreshing story that highlights the strength and bravery of a young girl who has to tackle such a heavy burden head on! While the focus is on the author's personal experience with her mother's cancer diagnosis, this book can be a source of guidance and comfort for children who have parents, grandparents, siblings, or any family member or friend who has been diagnosed with a serious illness.

Never mind the Real Housewives of Orange County—Marla Jo Fisher is the woman everyone can relate to, complete with bad parenting, rotten dogs, ill health, and fashion faux pas. For nearly two decades, in the Orange County Register and many syndicated papers, readers have delighted in Marla Jo's subversive humor, cranky intellect, and huge heart on her journey through broke, single, after-40 motherhood, when she adopted Cheetah Boy and Curly Girl, to her oddball adventures around the globe, to the sublime ridiculousness of life next door. Even while facing a devastating diagnosis, Fisher teaches us that humor is the balm that eases and the very thing that binds us together.

Taylor describes her mother's cancer and the feelings she experienced when her mom had chemotherapy.
