The koki'o, or Hibiscus arnottianus, is a rare white hibiscus plant with beautiful white flowers that grows only in the mountainous moist to wet forests of Moloka'i and O'ahu islands of Hawaii. The phrase "the rarest flower in the world" may sound like a quote from a fairy tale, but the world of plants on our planet is filled with flowers that often seem like they came straight out of a science fiction movie.
